Veda Minds
Wellness Centre

Where wellness care is practised, and a model to learn from

The care approach

Listen to the person → Assess before any plan → Personalised plan not one-size-fits-all → Sessions 30 to 60 min → Review refer if needed

Service	What it is
Neurotherapy	Indian Neurotherapy, developed by Dr. Lajpatrai Mehra: targeted pressure on specific body points, with no medicines, oils or injections.
Therapeutic yoga	Asana, pranayama and kriya sequences chosen for the person's needs.
Counselling	Clinical and psychology counselling for stress and emotional patterns.
Ayurvedic consultation	Guidance based on Ayurvedic principles.
Diet and lifestyle	Diet, sleep and lifestyle guidance.

People commonly seek supportive care for pain, stress and sleep, nerve weakness, memory and focus, metabolic and women's wellness concerns. The centre offers complementary care alongside medical treatment, does not promise cures, and results vary from person to person.

From qualification to your own clinic or wellness centre

"A skill becomes a livelihood when people know where to find it."

How Veda Minds supports eligible graduates

- Planning and centre-setup guidance.
- Professional and team training.
- SOP-oriented guidance.
- Service development and branding.
- Operational guidance and continued professional development.
- Ecosystem and partnership opportunities, including the Veda Minds Wellness Centre franchise or partner route for those who meet the criteria.

Support is subject to applicable laws, professional requirements, quality standards and onboarding criteria.
Franchise or partnership opportunities need separate eligibility, commercial terms, quality standards and a separate agreement.

Ways you can build a business

Model	What it looks like
Solo or small practice	Wellness consultations and Neurotherapy within your permitted scope, starting small.
Wellness centre	A team-run centre with defined services, SOPs and a client journey.
Franchise or partner centre	Joining the Veda Minds Wellness Centre ecosystem, subject to terms.
Training and education	Teaching, workshops and courses for wellness learners.
Products with EnHealth	Natural wellness products as part of a centre's offering (supplements, not medicines).

A simple business plan to complete before you open

Question	Think about
Who will I serve?	Age group, concerns, location
What will I offer?	Services within your permitted scope
What will it cost to run?	Space, equipment, team, registrations, marketing
How will I price?	Session fees, packages, local market
What rules apply?	Local registrations, GST/Udyam, advertising standards: check with a professional advisor
How will I stay safe and ethical?	Documentation, informed consent, referral to doctors
How will people find me?	Word of mouth, local presence, online listing, partnerships

CAREERS IN WELLNESS

Where your qualification can take you

Pathway	What it can involve
Healthcare and wellness	Support roles in wellness and healthcare settings
Neurotherapy / wellness practice	Practice within the scope permitted by law and university rules
Training and education	Teaching, facilitation and workshops
Research	Documentation, research projects, journals
Wellness organisations	Roles in wellness centres and organisations
Entrepreneurship	Your own practice, centre or franchise partner centre
Higher education	Further study and professional development

Government jobs and competitive exams

Graduates may apply wherever the recruitment notification accepts their qualification and they meet all prescribed conditions. For exams requiring a recognised Bachelor's degree, an applicable Bachelor's qualification may be eligible, subject to the specific exam rules. Eligibility is always decided by the recruiting authority and its official notification.

International pathways

NSQF-aligned learning gives a structured way to present your skills for further education and opportunities abroad, subject to the recognition requirements of the destination country, university, employer or regulator. Pathways may include further education, skills-based programmes, professional opportunities, research collaboration and wellness-sector roles.

Questions and Honest Boundaries

What you should know before you enrol

Are the programmes recognised?

They are delivered with UGC recognised partner universities and follow the NSQF framework. The university awards the degree or certificate, and recognition for a job, exam or country depends on the specific rules.

Will I become a doctor?

No. Our programmes are vocational and skill-based higher education. They are not MBBS, BAMS, BHMS, BPT, Nursing or any other regulated medical degree.

Can I diagnose or prescribe after the course?

Graduates should work only within the scope permitted by applicable laws, university regulations and professional requirements. A programme does not by itself authorise diagnosing disease, prescribing medicines or performing medical procedures.

Do you guarantee a job or income?

No. We provide training, guidance and hand-holding. No programme guarantees a job, income or business outcome.

Are classes online?

Theory classes are live online. Practical training, demonstrations and workshops are supervised; the location and schedule will be shared by the admissions team [CONFIRM].

Can I stop midway?

On the Swaminarayan University pathway you can exit with a recognised award at each stage under NEP 2020, subject to university rules.

Is a franchise guaranteed?

No. Franchise or partnership is subject to eligibility, commercial terms, quality standards and a separate agreement.

Can I buy the books without joining?

Yes, the five Indian Neurotherapy books are open to everyone.

Important: Veda Minds programmes provide vocational and skill-based higher education in Yogic Science and Neurotherapy. They should not be represented as an MBBS, BAMS, BHMS, BPT, Nursing or other regulated medical degree. Awards, eligibiiity, curriculum, examinations and certification remain subject to each university's rules.
